

Ten days to trade fair!

It's only ten days until Elk Point Agricultural Society's 1993 Trade Fair and it's looking like being a mighty big show! In fact, it's so big that one of the special guests is rumored to be a 24 foot dinosaur!

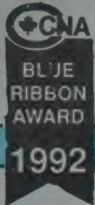

The Agricultural Society has just received confirmed that the World Dinosaur Tour will be putting in a three-booth display promoting the Greatest Show Unearthed. Ag Society volunteers will be visiting schools throughout the area this week to give out free passes to the Trade Fair so students will have an opportunity to see this outstanding exhibit. Ag Society President Glenn Harms feels the Dinosaur Tour exhibit will be a terrific addition to the show, and will add greatly to the entertainment value of the weekend. (Cont. on Page 2)

Volunteer Week - get on the bandwagon

Volunteer Week planning is now in its final stages, and to this point, community response has been excellent. In addition to cash donations from the three major oil companies, the committee has been offered the use of Tar-sands Steam Cleaning's basket truck to put up the Volunteer Week banner now being created by Claire Ference, while Jorvik Machine Tool will be donating helium for balloons to be given out at the Trade Fair. Various businesses are now being approached for donations of food and paper products for the pancake supper and kickoff refreshments. Elk Point Girl Guides have offered to run the pancake supper, while several members of Elk Point Town Council will serve as celebrity cooks.

The Volunteer Week kickoff, April 18, and pancake supper and workshop, April 22, are being advertised in the Elementary School newsletter, and posters are now being prepared. Programs of the events will also be given out at the Volunteer Week booth at the Trade Fair Community groups and organizations are responding well with their volunteer statistics when the committee members call. The volunteer hours will be totalled up and announced at the beginning of Volunteer Week.

The Volunteer Week committee is hoping to get residents of all ages involved. Elementary School students will be invited to enter two contests, one of guessing the number of volunteer hours, and the second of writing sentences on "how I volunteer." Groups are being encouraged to recognize the volunteer activities of their members, and everyone is invited to take part in the Kickoff, with the "Little Red Volunteer Hood" play by Fab Two Theatre and guest speaker Jon Lee Kootnekkoff, and the pancake supper, April 22, followed by the volunteer-oriented workshop, "Chickens, Ducks and Geese, or How to Avoid Going Quackers," with Sandra Young Kolbuc.

Facilities vandalized

Community Services employees were welcomed back to work with a new source of air conditioning Monday morning, following a weekend window breaking spree by unknown vandals.

Windows in the Lions Den at the southwest corner of the building and the northwest exit doors were smashed, allowing cold winds and rain to enter the building before

Booths for the show are going quite well, although again this year, there is a lack of response from local businesses. A week ago, Harms said, there had been 45 to 50 booths booked, but they have been going fast since that time and the arena space should be totally booked by the middle of this week.

Recreation will play a major part in this year's displays, with boats and recreation vehicles enough to set everyone dreaming of the coming summer. A food fair, children's zoo and a wide variety of displays to interest everyone will make this another big success for the Ag Society.

Included in the lineup is a photographer who takes "antique style" pictures, complete with vintage costumes. Another attraction will be a "space ball" ride. Entertainment is also on the agenda, and will include some of Elk Point's Elementary School skipping team, a band and more. Watch for further details next week, as the big weekend approaches.

The 4-H Public Speaking was held on February 28. We would like to thank all the judges and everyone who helped to make this day a success. First place Senior winner was David Naber. First place Junior winner was Claudia Naber.

Upcoming events are: April 13 - Bingo at Club Bingo, St. Paul; April 14 - Grooming Clinic at Glendon; April 16 to 18 - Trade Fair, Elk Point.

The next meeting will be on April 21 at 7 o'clock.

Property vandalized

Town crews could cover the holes. The Elk Point RCMP were called and are now investigating the matter.

Community Services Director Terri Ehlert said that vandalism has also occurred at the Elk Point Recreation Park, where 'No Hunting' signs have been shot down, bonfires built in the middle of the roadway, garbage cans battered and "furniture rearranged." She finds this destruction of Town property

"discouraging. A few people spoil things for many."

While no one knows what age of vandals were involved in these incidents, Ms Ehlert hopes parents will discuss the matter over their dinner tables in an attempt to make young people aware of the problems which ensue when Town property is damaged. Respect for public property is vital if Elk Point is to offer the present services to its residents.

What's Happening At COMMUNITY SERVICES

AMOCO AIDS VOUNTEER WEEK - Ron Johnson of Amoco Canada visited Vounteer Week Coordinator Daphne Schnurer last week to present a generous donation toward the upcoming Volunteer Week activities.

VOLUNTEER WEEK

Elk Point will soon be celebrating Volunteer Week with some exciting events scheduled.

If your organization is honoring volunteers in any way, please let us know at 724-3800. Also, everyone is invited to the following two functions - o come out and join the fun! Events are free of charge, but there will be a donation jar for the Girl Guides at the Pancake Supper.

Sunday, April 18 - Kickoff Event; Fab Two Theatre production of "Little Red Volunteer Hood" followed by speaker Jon Lee Kootnekoff on "Volunteerism." Coffee and doughnuts will be served. Starts at 7:30 p.m. in the F.G. Miller High School.

Thursday, April 22 - Pancake Supper, 5:00 - 6:30 p.m. with Celebrity Cooks - come out and Town Council will cook you supper at the Seniors Recreation Centre; followed by a workshop entitled "Chickens, Ducks and Geese, or How To Prevent Yourself From Going Quackers," by Sandra Young-Kolbuc, 7:00 to 10:00 p.m.

Volunteer Trivia

1. Who brings music to our lives and meets Sundays at 7:30 p.m.?
2. Who has supplied Elk Point with entertainment on Thursday evenings since 1965?
3. Who has contributed $60,500 to Elk Point Hospital?

4. Whose efforts have kept disaster victims warm for many years?

The first caller to 724-3800 with correct answers to all four questions will win a prize.

Supporting Events:

1. Video of Volunteers In Action - to be shown at the Trade Fair.

2. "Helping Hands Banner" - a handprint representing each individual organization with their own volunteer hours across it.

3. School Contests - Grades 4, 5 and 6 - "What do I do to volunteer for my community?" Grades K to 3 - Guess the number of volunteers - have the exact number of volunteers in the jar.

Other organizations who are honoring their own volunteers are:

- Public Library Volunteer Appreciation Tea - Tuesday, April 20 at 7:30 p.m.

- Heritage Lodge Volunteer Appreciation Tea - Friday, April 23 at 7:00 p.m.

- Community Services Volunteer Appreciation Luncheon - Monday, April 19 at 11:30 a.m.

Big bouquets go out to all the organizations who have turned in their volunteer statistics.

Getting your house in order

The Elk Point and District Interagency Committee presents the workshop, 'Getting Your House In Order.'

There is only one certainty in anyone's life, and that is that it will eventually end; therefore death is one feature that all human beings have in common. But it is rarely openly discussed even though we are all aware that preparation for death enables us to live life to the fullest, and thereby achieve a better 'quality of life.'

An information workshop has been designed to help you to prepare mentally, spiritually, and financially for this event, and as well to help you to share planning with your family. Guest speakers will include Vital Ouellette, Dr. Drew Ramful and Caroline Yewchin.

Be sure to attend this workshop on Tuesday, April 6 between 7 and 10 p.m. at the Seniors Recreation Centre. Admission is FREE!

DO WE HAVE YOUR SUPPORT?

How do you like the monthly Community Calendar? Input and suggestions are welcomed and can be given to our Community Calendar volunteers - Debbie Leckie and Daphne Schnurer. But... ongoing financial support is needed to be able to continue to publish the calendar. Can you be a Community Calendar sponsor? Any form of sponsorship would be appreciated - be it for a full month or portion of a month. All sponsors can advertise their messages directly on the calendar. Call 724-3800 if you can help us out on this community project.

SIDING SIDING SIDING

A 1988 study looking at heart disease estimates potential savings of $103.75 million for every 10 percent of the population which is ACTIVE. When examining low back pain, the potential estimated saving was $48.8 million.

A Canadian study focusing on corporate health-care costs showed that costs increased sharply at one corporation while showing almost no change at and experimental company that has a FITNESS PROGRAM for employees. A direct saving was calculated at $130 per participant.

Another provincial study indicated if everyone 20 to 69 year of age reached a modest level of aerobic fitness, the immediate annual saving in health payments would be $31 million. Also, the provincial associated decrease of coronary factors would lower future provincial health costs by an additional $13 million per year.

EXERCISE produces fiscal benefits which can outweigh immediate program costs. Regular activity may reduce the incidence and severity of chronic disease and perhaps extend the lifespan by a few years. The benefits are a reduction in demand for acute and chronic medical services, lower indirect costs of illness, and less costly physical dependence during retirement. (Source: Recreation Update)

Thoughts at season's end

The Minor Hockey season has drawn to a close for another year. The ice is going out, but the memories of the season's trials and triumphs will remain, as they have for each of the twenty years since the formation of the Elk Point Minor Hockey Association.

How proud they must have been, back then, with their brand new arena ready to go and 105 boys aged from 4 to 16 registered for four levels of hockey. Elk Point Hotel and Elk Point Co-op sponsored the Tom Thumbs, Tredger's Drugs and the Chamber of Commerce the Mites, the Lions Club sponsored the Peewees and the Elks Lodge sponsored the Bantams. No doubt many of the fathers who now bring their kids in to play, or come in themselves as part of the coaching staff, were among those long ago players on the teams of '73.

Since then, the arena has acquired artificial ice, and a recent addition of dressing rooms, to accommodate the ever growing numbers of youngsters involved in minor hockey and figure skating, which incidentally also started in the arena's first year of operation.

Through all those twenty years, the lifeblood of the association has been its dedicated volunteers - the parents, the coaches and managers, the association executive, the players and the fans - all of whom play major roles in the success of the association.

None of these roles is easy. Hockey parents, in addition to hauling children to practices and games and taking their turn in the concession, must encourage their offspring to keep trying and to be a good sport whether winning or losing. They should also be good sports themselves, and avoid calling down the opposing team, the referees and the less skilful players on one's own team. They must try to bear with the coach's decisions, unless they are prepared to coach the team themselves.

The coaches and managers have a challenging task: to win games while keeping the parents happy and teaching the players the skills of the game, along with sportsmanship and playing as part of a team, all at the same time. This combination, plus the many hours involved, requires a lot of dedication and a tough hide with which to repel the inevitable results of making unpopular decisions. The very decision to be a coach may be an unpopular one with the coach's family, who must move their activities around to fit in with the hockey schedule for the duration of the season.

The association executive has the trying task of keeping all the teams happy with regards to schedules for practices, games and tournaments, dealing with league affiliations, and taking care of player registration, collection of fees, budgeting and financing. A long list of volunteers, some of them taking part year after year, have been responsible for the development and growth of the association over the past two decades, with the players of yesterday growing up to take over positions on the executive and as coaches for today's players.

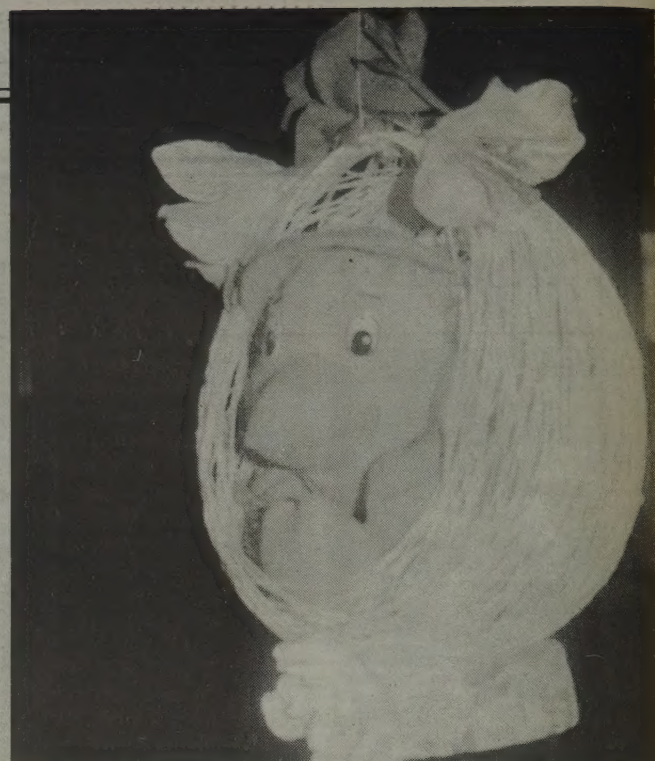

The players themselves also have a challenge: to keep trying until they learn the necessary skills, to show the necessary aggressiveness to score and defend the net without being aggressive enough to land in the penalty box, to develop stamina enough to endure rough play and long shifts on the ice, and patience enough to sit on the bench until sent into the game. They must learn to win and lose equally well, and to play as a team, rather than wanting to hog the puck and the limelight. They also need to learn to take criticism well, and to remember that their parents will tell them what they did wrong "for their own good," not to make them feel foolish.

The fans...well, they probably have the least challenge: to sit on hard benches in a sometimes chilly arena and watch all the action, to cheer and encourage the team on to victory, to try not to give the refs and the opposition a bad time, and to keep on coming out to the games and cheer on the teams, whether they win or lose.

One thing that all five groups need to keep in mind is that hockey is a game, and should be FUN for those involved, not a source of argument for parents, a thankless task for the coaches and executive, a frustrating experience for the players and cold feet for the fans. Winning isn't everything, and a player's personal best is all that can realistically be asked for. These are kids, after all, not the NHL.

(Another major part of Minor Hockey are two people who, while they are employees of the Agricultural Society, rather than volunteers, do a whole lot that goes way above and beyond the call of duty. They are the people who keep the whole arena in running condition for us all to enjoy.)

In any event, thanks to all concerned for another memorable year of minor hockey. See you all in the fall.

HAVE A DUCKY EASTER! - says this perky bird at Heritage Lodge, on behalf of all the residents.

Open letter to the community

Dear Editor:

The following letter has been sent to Al Pankiw, President of the Elk Point Minor Hockey Association.

Dear Mr. Pankiw:

Through the years I have tried to teach my children to stand up for what they believe in, don't be afraid to speak out. The time has come for me to practice what I preach.

Do we all pay the same amount of fees to Minor Hockey for our children to play? Last time I looked, we did, so why is it, come playoff time and provincials, some players get more ice time than others? Is it not a team out there or just a selected few? Do you care about the feelings of the boys left sitting on the bench while the others play? What does this do to their self esteem? Can you feel satisfaction in winning? What happened to fair play? What happened to sportsmanship? As parents, are we expected to turn the other cheek? What are we teaching our children when we support a system that says we must win at any cost? So did this approach work? Of course not!!! The few players that were on the ice all the time played out and the team lost anyway.

The bottom line is, the boys were not played as a team and team work could have taken them a long way. The players just want to play hockey and were willing to play as a team with equal opportunities and ice time. I feel it was the coaches who lost focus. It's in their power to make or break a team. I for one take no pride in the way things were managed. I felt embarrassed for the boys, for their families and the community who supported and came to watch them. I am not speaking as a vendor against the coaching staff. I feel they lost as well. They lost our respect and that of many other parents, but most importantly they lost the respect of their team. To me that makes them the biggest losers.

Coaches cry because they lack players for midget hockey. This is not the first year that "win at any cost" has ruled over fair play. Over the years we have seen it at all levels and it has never produced anything but conflict and hard feelings. Consequently many children drop out by the time they reach Bantam and Midget age. Minor hockey should develop a mandate with specific goals and objectives that promote and encourage physical fitness, sportsmanship, teamwork and equal opportunity for all participants to develop their skills and enjoy the game. Our organization must take responsibility for seeing that our coaches maintain this practice.

Yours sincerely,
Kevin and Debbie Lawrence

Alberta Council on Aging Region 2 holds meeting in Grand Centre

Irene Magnusson

The March 16, 1993 Annual Meeting of the Region 2 Alberta Council on Aging (ACA) Board opened at 10:30 a.m. in Grand Centre, with Vice Chairman Mary Woytenko of Athabasca presiding. About a dozen persons were in attendance.

Minutes of the last Board Meeting reminded the group that they were without a president and a treasurer, and therefore could not pay bills, etc. In absentia (as he was in Australia) the nomination of Bob Pattison of Ashmont as President was moved and carried, he having agreed to accept this position earlier. Harry Ostapiw of St. Paul was nominated Treasurer, and accepted. Mary Woytenko agreed to continue as Vice President, and Colleen Saunders will continue as Secretary for the coming year.

Reports and setting of meeting dates for the coming year ensued; meetings will be: June 15 in Athabasca; September 14 in Fort McMurray (Fall Conference); and November 16, in Ashmont. It was agreed that a bus would be used for travel to Fort McMurray.

Past President Paul Poty, now of Edmonton, then gave a report of activities of the ACA Board. He dealt with new ideas of seniors' place in society, that they are an increasing group. Many programs are under scrutiny, as governments look for ways to cut costs. Seniors are determined to fight for what they have, and reject, as far as possible, cutbacks and / or erosion of benefits now in place.

Mr. Poty said that a number of members have been trained to act as facilitators, who will go, on invitation, to consult with seniors' groups who are having difficulty in getting members to participate in programs and activities at their Centres. Many groups feel they have a good proportion of their seniors as members, but find many seldom, if ever, participate in the planned activities. Poty feels the facilitators could be of help, finding the problem and remedies required.

The afternoon meeting was general, with a fair number of seniors joining the group for that session. Greetings were brought by the Mayor of Grand Centre, Ray Coates. Also a teacher, Mayor Coates remained to answer questions on how students view Seniors, and how communications between the two levels could be improved.

Minutes and business arising therefrom went quickly, leaving the group ready to hear guest speaker Sgt. Merriweather from the local RCMP. His subject was security for the home and persons, especially as pertains to seniors and others living alone.

Various alarm devices were discussed; common sense and reasonable care should be used at all times. Sgt. Merriweather advised against living in a state of fear and dread of break-ins, etc., but said the place that looks like an invitation to a break-in, would be most likely to be broken into. Questions were put and answered.

The Grand Centre Seniors at the Leisure Sports Village offered coffee and snacks through the day.

Curling season winds up

Elk Point Curling Club wound up a very successful season at their Awards Banquet and Dance last Friday evening, with the presentation of trophies to league winners and the year's top junior curlers.

The Club placed a new emphasis on junior curling this year, and had an excellent 15-team after-school league running each Thursday, as well as numerous teens on teams in the regular leagues. Awards went to the Best Junior First Year Curlers, Renee Anderson and Justin Conrad, and to the Most Improved Juniors, Crystal Yake, Christina Sereda and Jay Yerama. The 1993 Junior Team of the Year was one which won the School Zones, curled in the regular Mixed League as well as the After School league, and won the first annual Junior Mixed Bonspiel: Denis and Jennifer Jasinsky, Sean Fairbairn and Tennille Anderson.

A special award was presented to Curling Club Treasurer Mark Wilson, for his valuable efforts with the club. Wilson, who is leaving Elk Point shortly, was recognized for his hard work in organizing bingos, keeping the community informed about curling activities through the newspaper column, and serving as treasurer for the club.

League awards went to Don Anderson, Art Lypka, Bob Matthewa and Ian Huffman, who were sponsored by E-Can Oilfield Services as they curled their way to the top of the Men's A Division, and Steve Penz, Robyn Moroziuk, Sheldon Ballas and John Kadutski, winners of the Men's B Division. Mixed League winners were Lyle Yerama, Terry and Russ Hebblethwaite and Maureen Yerama in the A Division and Art Britton, Lorna Anderson, Kurt Uhrich and Renee Anderson in the Mixed B Division.

Over 60 people attended the banquet, including some special guests, the donors who donated time, materials and money to help the club run in a smooth manner and made the year a success. Curling Club President Lyle Yerama noted that more advertisers had provided sponsorship through the sale of space in the curling rink this year, and numerous donors had contributed to the Junior curling program. "We all recognize the value of having juniors in the Curling Club, and our Number One goal this year was to make it attractive for junior curlers. This brought a lot of curlers in."

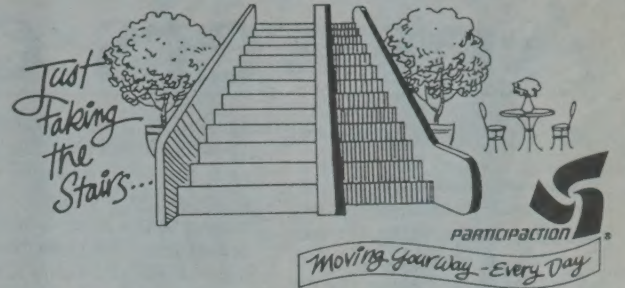

Yerama said the club had gone through "lots of ups and downs" this season, due mostly to equipment problems, but through it all, he has greatly enjoyed working with the executive: Past President Dave Yake, Secretary Monique Penz, Treasurer Mark Wilson, and Directors Allan Berg, Steve Penz, Terry Gusnowski, Susan Thornton and Fred Lambright, all of whom provided "a great deal of support."

Notice INSURANCE DEADLINE CHANGED!

Alberta Hail & Crop Insurance Corporation has changed the cancellation deadline for

All-Risk Crop Insurance & Revenue Protection Plan to April 30.

In past years, the cancellation deadline came before the enrolment deadline.

Now both the enrolment and cancellation deadlines are April 30, so participating farmers need only remember one deadline date.

Through these programs, Alberta Hail & Crop Insurance Corporation offers Alberta's farmers more flexibility, more options for coverage, and more personal choice opportunities.

You select what works best for your farm:

ALL-RISK CROP INSURANCE

Renew or enrol for Canada-Alberta All-Risk Crop Insurance if you need protection against production losses due to weather and/or other natural hazards.

REVENUE PROTECTION PLAN

Get Revenue Protection if you're concerned about fluctuating income levels. Revenue Protection Insurance provides production and price protection based on historic price trends.

ALL-RISK CROP INSURANCE AND REVENUE PROTECTION

Protect against the natural hazards of crop production AND the financial losses that can result from low market prices. Get double protection and achieve even greater income stability.

To find out more about these programs and information on your coverage, contact your local Alberta Hail & Crop Insurance district office before the April 30 deadline.

Answers on tax assessment

Question: What is assessment?

Answer: A method for ensuring that people pay taxes according to the value of their property in comparison with other people's values. Land and improvements to the land (buildings, structures and any machinery or equipment affixed to the land).

Question: What qualifies an assessor to determine my property's value?

Answer: An assessor's training includes the relevant legislation, economics, real estate and assessing value. Some assessors work for Alberta Municipal Affairs and some work directly for larger municipalities. But all assessors in effect work for the ratepayer, to see that your property is assessed fairly in relation to your neighbor's.

Question: Where does the mill rate come in?

Answer: Each year, your elected municipal representatives balance two factors to determine their operating budget for the coming year: Province of Alberta grants (to schools, roads, hospitals, etc.) and local taxes.

To determine each property owner's tax share, council divides the total taxes it must raise locally by the municipality's total assessment.

Question: What's the difference between an annual and a general assessment?

Answer: During annual assessments, you probably notice very little change in your property assessment, unless you made a change or an improvement to your property.

General assessments are conducted periodically to bring assessments up to date with current market values, and to account for changing economic conditions. In a general assessment year, your property assessment may change dramatically, even if you didn't make any improvements.

Each municipality holds its general assessments as often as necessary to reflect changing economic conditions. In periods of accelerated economic change, there is a tendency for more frequent general assessments.

Question: Aren't general assessments much higher than previous years?

Answer: It's true that assessments may increase during a general assessment year, but that doesn't mean that taxes will increase proportionately. So why is your assessment probably higher? The answer relates to changing assessment procedures, designed to better reflect current economic conditions. New procedures make it easier for property owners to understand their assessments, as these assessments are more closely related to current values.

During a general assessment year, new levels of value, and some changes in exemption policies, will be noticed by owners.

Question: Are property taxes going up too?

Answer: During a general assessment year, property values may increase by five times. But it is unlikely that the municipal budget would increase to the same extent.

Question: How does the assessor arrive at a value for my urban property?

Answer: The assessor reviews the value of your land, and any buildings ("improvements") on it. In assessing land, assessors look at prices of similar properties in similar areas of your municipality, taking into account factors that affect this selling price (local zoning conditions, traffic levels around your property and the proximity of amenities and facilities).

Improvements are valued by estimating what it would cost to replace them. They are valued at a standard formula, used throughout Alberta. With older buildings, a depreciation factor is also taken into account.

Question: What about my country acreage?

Answer: If you are in a rural municipality, your non-farm improvements (homes and buildings) and commercial or industrial facilities are assessed the same way as urban improvements.

Your land however, is assessed according to its size, use and value. So if you have a parcel that is less than three acres, it is assessed at market value. But if your parcel is larger than three acres, only the first three acres (or the larger area actually in use) are assessed at market value. The rest of your parcel is then assessed at agricultural value.

Alberta

Municipal Affairs and the Town of Elk Point

Question: How is our farm property assessed?

Answer: New legislation has changed some outmoded policies and practices to bring assessed values up to date without changing the basic philosophy of farm assessment. Assessments are still conducted on the basis of the land's ability to produce agricultural goods, either crops or livestock.

What did change? The dwellings and surrounding buildings and the land being farmed are now looked on as separate assessment units. Farmland values were brought up to date, province-wide.

How is farmland assessed? On the basis of what an owner should pay if its best and only use is agricultural. Soil quality and other variables like the presence of stones, sloughs, or rail lines cutting across fields can increase the amount of work needed to make land produce. These are taken into account in the assessment process.

Question: What if I disagree with the assessment? Can I appeal my taxes?

Answer: You cannot dispute your taxes, but you can make a complaint on your assessment. If you feel your assessment is unfair and decide to appeal, you must complain within 30 days of the mailing of the assessment notice. (Even if you don't receive a notice, you may file a complaint during the month of January in any year).

To compare your assessment with others, visit the office of the Municipal Secretary and check the Assessment Roll. If your assessment seems out of proportion, there are three steps you may take:

Step 1: Make an appointment with the assessor, and explain why you disagree. Municipalities that are conducting general assessments will frequently hold open houses after assessments are mailed. You may wish to meet the assessor at this time, and point out your disagreement.

Step 2: If you still feel the assessment is unfair, you may wish to take your complaint to the Court of Revision. This court, made up of ratepayers (often councillors) is appointed by your municipal council. To arrange for an appearance, send written notice to the Municipal Secretary (you can use the designated part of your assessment notice for this purpose). You will be advised of the date and time of your court appearance. The Court of Revision cannot alter the system of taxation or assessment. But it will ensure that your property is assessed fairly in relation to other property.

Step 3: If you disagree with the decision of the Court of Revision, you may make an appeal, within 21 days of the mailing of the decision, to the Alberta Assessment Appeal Board. If you are not successful in your appeal, you may wish to pursue the matter in a court of law, but it would be wise to seek legal advice at this point.

If you have further questions, or if you wish to receive information on assistance or exemption programs, phone or write your local municipal office.

Archival display coming

The library will be featuring a special exhibit of archival photographs and text which tells the story of the internment of Ukrainian men at Banff and Castle Mountain during World War I. This exhibit is provided by the Ukrainian Canadian Professional and Business Club and will be in the library April 12 to 14. Don't miss this display of historical interest.

Last week's question, "Why is April 1 called APRIL FOOL'S DAY?" can be found in the World Book Encyclopedia, 1988 edition, page 577. "In English speaking countries, people play jokes on April Fool's Day. The victim is called and April Fool. The observance began in France after the adoption of a reformed calendar by Charles IX in 1564. France was the first to adopt this calendar. Up to that time, the New Year celebration began March 21 and ended April 1. What do you think of that?"

The question for this week is, "What famous Canadian female writer died in April 1942? (Hint: she has made a certain province in Canada very famous.)"

We would like to thank Lena Stepa for her display, which includes a selection of Ukrainian Easter eggs and other items of interest. These are on exhibit during Easter in a show case in the library.

New Books

Following in the tradition of No Time For Tears and Songs In The Whirlwind, we have

Where Lies Our Hope by June Masters Bacher, Book 3 of the Heartland Heritage series. This book spins a riveting tale of tragedy and triumph as a depression-era farm family travels west to forge a new life.

Three Harvest House Fireside Romance novels by Lori Wick: The Long Road Home, A Song For Silas and A Gathering of Memories

Responding to an advertisement, Kathleen O'Malley crossed an ocean to meet a total stranger and become a mail order bride in the inspiring novel A Bride For Donican by Jeannette Oke.

In the video section, we have two musical videos: by Rodgers and Hammerstein, The King and I - Yul Brynner and Deborah Kerr share an enchanting oriental kingdom in one of the most memorable musicals of all times. In Show Boat, you'll love paddling down the river with Kathryn Grayson, Ava Gardner and Howard Keel as they dance and sing on the Mississippi river boat.

We have four new music cassettes: Greatest Hits Volume One by Randy Travis, A Lot About Livin' and A Little About Love by Alan Jackson. Classical Music For People Who Hate Classical Music and More Classical Music For People Who Hate Classical Music.

Thank You

The Cameron family wish to express their sincere thanks to their many friends and relatives for their generous support and words of kindness during the passing of our dear mother. A special note of thanks goes out also to the staff of the Elk Point Hospital, Heritage Lodge and Yewchin's Funeral Chapel for their professionalism and kindness. To all those who contributed to the various charities, we extend our most sincere thanks.

COMMUNITY SERVICES

POSITIVE ATTITUDES MAKE TOUGH JOBS
EASIER

I've heard it said that attitude is the altitude we put on our problems.

Remember the story about the two boys who each had to shovel out a manure-filled stall?

For the first boy it was practically the end of the world; all he saw before him was a hot and smelly job. The second boy looked at the stall, smiled expectantly, attacked the job with enthusiasm knowing "with all of this stuff around, there must be a pony here somewhere."

Both had the same problem. The difference of course was their attitudes.

Was there a pony? Maybe not, but the second little boy sure had a lot more fun shovelling. Rotten attitudes are all around. The most common are:

- Complaining: In addition to letting you know what is wrong today, a complainer can also tell you what will be wrong tomorrow, beginning with the weather and traffic.

- Expressing righteous indignation: What counts is ethics - theirs. They divide the world into right and wrong or black and white.

- Playing victim: The common refrain is "It wasn't my fault," regardless of what they did or didn't do.

- Pouting and withdrawing: The answer to "What's wrong?" is always "Nothing."

These attitudes are pretty easy to recognize in others. But the real question is: how quickly do you recognize them in yourself?

Since there isn't a whole lot you can do to fix someone else's attitude, the goal is to develop a formula that helps you keep your attitude on track when you have one of those manure-filled days.

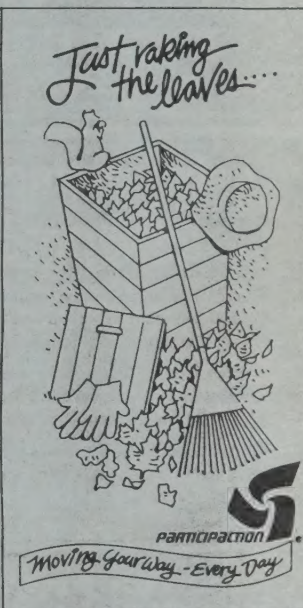

My method includes paying attention to my thoughts and behavior. Being aware that my attitude is crummy is step one to a more positive outlook. Next, I put myself in "time out." Time out is positive. It's my time to begin adjusting my attitude.

Remember: "Men do not attract what they want, but that which they are."

- James Allen

Upcoming fun and furry open horse show

Charlene Baker
Elk Point Agricultural Society

On Saturday, April 10th, the Tall Horse Saddlery of Edmonton and the Elk Point Agricultural Society will be hosting a Fun & Furry Open Horse Show at the Elk Point Ag Society Indoor Show Arena.

The day is intended to be a fun and learning show. CEF rules will apply and proper equipment will be required along with reasonable attire. Dianne Jackson of Shady Grove Farm of Bonnyville will be the judge.

Of course, as the name implies, most of the horses will still be very furry with winter hair and far from show condition! In fact, there will be a trophy for the furriest horse!

There will be a full range of Western and English classes with both Junior and Senior categories for each class. There will also be Barrels and Poles, plus two jumping classes. The first jumper class will be a fun class with a course made up of low cavalletties and poles, which any trail horse should be able to maneuver. The second jump class will be a regular pre-green jumper with jump heights of no more than 2 ft. or 2 ft. 6 inches.

The first and second prizes and / or gift certificates are all sponsored by the Tall Horse Saddlery of Edmonton.

There will also be ribbons to 6th place. The Elk Point Ag Society would like to thank Duane Warren, owner of the Tall Horse Saddlery for his generous support and hosting the show. The gift certificates may be cashed in at the Tall Horse store in Edmonton or at the Elk Point Ag Society Trade Fair the following weekend, April 16, 17 and 18, where Duane will also have an exhibit.

So all you show people and 4-H members, come out and have a fun time and maybe get a learning / training experience at the Spring Fun and Furry Show, and get some practice before the summer show season starts.

Ag society hosts stock dog clinic

Close to twenty dog owners and their four legged friends took part in a three day Stock Dog Clinic hosted by the Elk Point Agricultural Society this past weekend, with Joe Kapelos of Roy, Washington as instructor.

Kapelos taught both dogs and handlers the basics of herding, as they worked small groups of not always cooperative sheep, moving them around the arena barn in answer to hand and spoken commands. Many of the participants were farmers who use their dogs to work livestock, while others brought their dogs to herd just for fun and exercise.

The instructor has a lifetime of experience in working with dogs, beginning as a teenager, when he worked for a veterinarian. He was later a sentry dog trainer for the Air Force, and is now an American Kennel Club and Canadian Kennel Club judge, as well as instructing herding for the past 15 years. He trained one dog which now helps the Alaska Department of Wildlife to count the state's musk ox population, a task which has become much more efficient since the dog was acquired.

Kapelos says he doesn't like to use 'no' in herding, preferring to use other, less final commands. "What he's doing is herding to the dog, if not to you," Kapelos said, adding that it is up to the owner to channel the dog's efforts into the "right style of herding."

He trains by "reading the dog," and employs different training steps for each dog, as dogs come with a variety of temperaments. Herding is "a wonderful experience we can share with our dog," and is an opportunity to have the dog do what it was bred for, Kapelos said. Herding instinct is not confined to Collies and Australian Shepherds, Kapelos said. He believes all herding breeds do just as well, with training, and uses other breeds, such as Corgis, for demonstrations at dog shows in Seattle, Washington and Portland, Oregon. Kapelos and his wife have a German Shepherd, a Shetland Sheep dog and a Border Collie on their farm, 'Ewe-Topia,' where numerous people bring their dogs to learn herding, first with ducks and then with sheep.

The dogs attending the weekend workshop ranged from huge woolly Bouviers to a small, woolly Puli, from Collies to crossbreeds. All were put through their paces and were eager participants.

Kind words do not cost much. They never blister the tongue or lips. They make other people good natured. They also produce their own image on people's souls and a beautiful image it is.

SPC VOTE FOR AL POIRIER

PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE NOMINATION

We have in the new Lac La Biche / St. Paul Constituency a basis on which we can build a strong future. We share many of the same concerns, whether it be agricultural, oil & gas, tourism, education, forestry or environment concerns. We also share a cultural diversity that gives us a potential for co-operation and growth.

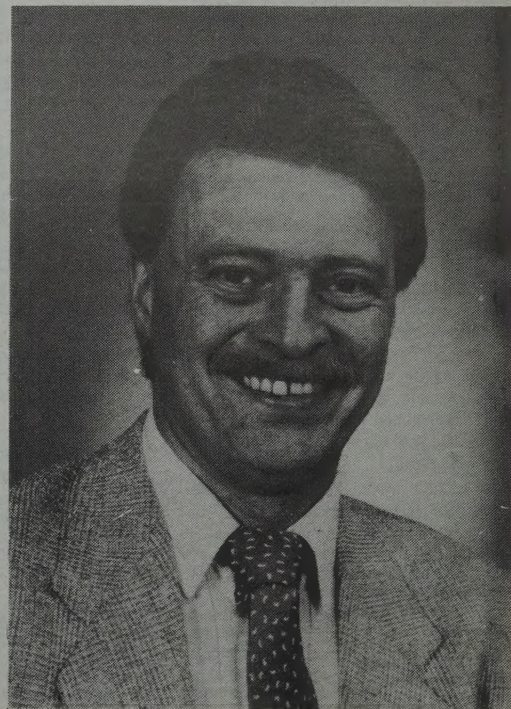

To obtain the maximum potential we have to have a strong voice in government.

As a successful businessman for over 20 years who has been active in many dealings with all walks of life, I have heard and will continue to listen to the needs of the people.

I will strongly represent the concerns and aspirations of the people of this constituency in government.
